Brian Kunath : The Brewer's Bible: How to Brew Delicious Beers at Home before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Brewer's Bible: How to Brew Delicious Beers at Home:

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. good bookBy Dmont40i found the book to be helpful and easy to follow for what i was expecting out of it. i am new to the home brew world so it worked out for me and was helpful. there are alot of books out on the market about the subject, personally i enjoyed the spiral binding, the fact the book was not too long or too brief. after reading i bought another book for my brother who also brews at a intermediate level. he said he loved it as well.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Very useful and enjoyableBy St. ChipVery useful and enjoyable. Wish he would include the alcohol content calculation in the index with the other formulas. I would recommend to anyone.

When brewing was discovered more than 8,000 years ago, it was hailed as a gift from the gods. Today beer is enjoyed all over the world, available in infinite styles; yet brewing is still seen as a mysterious process. In reality, everyone can create unique beers in their own home, and this comprehensive, step-by-step guide will show you how. You will learn how to buy, build, and use all of the equipment involved in home-brewing, getting you started with a minimum of hassle and expense. Following the magic rules to success couldn't be easier, and handy worksheets mean each batch can be easily monitored and recorded; leading you to triumph time after time.

About the Author Brian Kunath, a freelance writer living in Raleigh, North Carolina, has brewed his own beer since 1990. He is a member of the American Homebrewers' Association and has attended numerous lectures and microbrewing conventions. He has written on a wide range of subjects for such publications as The Sporting Times and the nationally recognized online publication, CitySearch.com. When he is not writing about beer, the self-confessed lupomaniac can be found in his garage "brewhouse"; hovering over his kettle with a handful of hops muttering "just a little more."
